Louisville Program Packed with Compelling Topics, Lessons Learned

If the excitement of Louisville is not enough to draw you to NACUSAC's 2018 Annual Conference, the educational program surely will. Risk management and regulatory compliance are perhaps the two biggest challenges credit unions are facing right now. Regulators are placing more emphasis on the role and responsibilities of the supervisory/audit committees. And, your credit union cannot operate soundly without an effective and informed committee.

The conference program will also highlight lessons learned from the events of 2017, including disaster preparedness, protecting against HR issues like sexual harassment, cybersecurity risks and the economic and regulatory impact of new legislation. From June 13-16, these topics will be covered by a lineup of expert presenters and consultants. Attendees will also benefit from a unique opportunity to network with other committees from across the country.
